Presentation & Facilitated Discussion: Victims Services

Bridging the Gaps in First Nations Police Services. NAPS is a dynamic organization that serves 34 First Nation communities in the Nishnawbe Aski Nation Territory. Providing Victims Services in a territory that is two-thirds the size of Ontario poses challenges that Det. Morrison will touch on. Advocating for resources for victims, the role of tradition and restorative justice.

Detective Alana Morrison, Nishnawbe Aski Police Service (NAPS)

3:00 PM -
4:00 PM

Showcase of Innovative Programs

UCCM Social Navigator Program: The UCCM Anishnaabe Police Services' Social Navigator Initiative (SNI) is here to connect and support at-risk individuals or repeat offenders in finding and connecting with appropriate services. Our goal is to help using early intervention and outreach via the Police service and in collaboration with our partners.

Daughness Migwans, UCCM Police Service

litaohkanitsini'kotsiiyio'p Hub (Place of Conversation): For over two years, the Hub has worked along side the Calgary Police Service (CPS) to address the legacy of systemic racism, colonization, impact of trans-generational trauma, etc. As our phase one and two evaluation states this journey has been tough but rewarding and worthwhile for our community and for CPS. It is an example of how our community and CPS can "make relatives" and walk together down a path of healing and not just reconciliation but truth.

Shane Gauthier, Creator

4:00 PM -
4:15 PM

Health Break & Networking

There will be rooms where delegates can virtually chat with other delegates.
